Proposed outlet mall scuttled in Romulus

The news that a proposed regional outlet mall will not be coming to Romulus soured an otherwise positive 2016 development report for the city.

Tim Keyes, economic development director for the city, said he was informed recently that the Outlets of Michigan retail center that had been proposed for a large swath of land off I-94 and Vining Road near Metro Airport, has officially been scuttled.

"They just couldn't find enough tenants to break ground," said Keyes. "The retail market is really struggling."

The project, initially announced in 2015, was first scheduled to break ground in 2016. As recently as January, a third partner had been announced and the development had been pushed back to 2018, but was still considered a live project.

Keyes said contact had dropped off after that, however, and progress has been nonexistent.

"In the end, I didn't think it was much of a surprise," he said. "This has been languishing for a while."

The construction of regional outlet malls is downswing across the country. National figures showed only eight outlet malls opened in 2016, compared to 15 the year before that. Even existing, profitable malls are losing major tenants.

Keyes' announcement came amidst a development report to the city council that showed a solid year in 2016 and a promising start to 2017. Nearly 60 major projects were initiated or completed in 2016 and another 30 are in the pipeline for 2017 already, he said. Last year, the

Ford to invest $850 million at Wayne plant

The new Ford Ranger and Ford Bronco trucks will be built in Wayne.

Ford officials announced the plans to invest more than $850 million at the Michigan Assembly Plant on Michigan Avenue to facilitate production of the vehicles in what Joe Hinrichs, Ford Motor Co. president of the Americas described as "consistent with what we agreed to and talked about with the UAW in 2015 negotiations."

Ford will retain all 4,000 workers currently at the Wayne facility. The announced investment is $150 million more than Ford agreed to invest during the union contract negotiations, a spokesman said.

Ford spokesmen said the company would be making a total investment at three plants of $1.2 billion, including $200 million for a new advanced data center adjacent to the Flat Rock assembly plant and $150 million at the engine plant in Romeo.

Plans to build the Ranger and Bronco trucks in Wayne was first announced last January at the Detroit Auto Show. The trucks will replace the current Ford Focus and Ford C-Max being built in Wayne. Those models will be built at a Ford plant in Mexico.

Hinrichs said the new Ranger will have some changes in styling making it unique for North American customers. The Bronco will be a full-size truck based on the Ranger platform, he added.

"It's a package deal - the two vehicles go very nicely together," Hinrichs said.

The new vehicles will also have a new engine but Ford did not announce where those engines would be manufactured. Hinrichs confirmed that state tax incentives were a factor in the decision to make the investments. Michigan Strategic Fund board members announced last week that an economic development incentive package comprising a $10 million performance-based grant and a State Essential Services Assessment Exemption estimated to be worth $10.4 million over 15 years had been approved for the automaker.

Thousands of children will gather to await a helicopter loaded with more than 20,000 marshmallows. As the marshmallows drop, children will race to collect as many as possible before trading them in for a prize. Children can also search for a special colored egg dropped among the marshmallows which can be redeemed for a prize.

Children will be separated in three age categories, 4 years old and younger, 5-7 years old, and 8 years and older.

New this year will be a selfie section at each park where families can take a photo using the hashtag #ItsRainingMarshmallows to post on their favorite social media site.

projects represented about a $149 million investment in the community as well as 1,150 new jobs. An additional 840 jobs were retained.

Some of those projects included adaptive reuse, such as the YFS company taking over the former Lee Steel facility and Panera Bread has renovated a warehouse and will now bake all the bread for its Detroit-based restaurants there.

Keyes said there was hope for smaller, lingering projects, too. By embracing the Redevelopment Ready Certified Community Program through the Michigan Economic Development Corporation (MEDC), the city hopes to bring new life to the former Romulus Marketplace grocery store. Through the use of Community Development Block Grants (CDBGs), the former fire station on Goddard Road will be transformed into a restaurant, run by a Romulus resident who will lease the facility from the city. The former Whistle Stop restaurant downtown will re-open this year as a brew pub. Keyes said they hope to serve their first customers in June.

"We're sending most of our staff through the Redevelopment Ready program right now," Keyes said. "The program will open us up to various grant and loan programs and other forms of assistance to help bring businesses to the town."

The silver lining to the scuttled mall project, he added, is that the land is still there and still available for its best use. He said it was unfortunate that the mall was not going to happen at this time, but better for the city to have the project fall through now than not be successful.

"I'd rather have the empty land than to have something up, built, and always struggling," he said.

Flying high

Special plane rides offered at museum

Winter is slowly leaving Michigan, which means the iconic Waco biplane will be making its first public appearance when the 2017 flying season begins May 20 at the Detroit Aviation and Airline Collectibles Show at Yankee Air Museum.

"We are excited to open the hangar doors and offer rides in one our newest flyable aircraft," said Kevin Walsh, executive director of the Yankee Air Museum. "Passengers enjoy its vibrant red color, vast wingspan and open cockpit design."

The YMF-5C Waco biplane pays tribute to the barnstorming era; an important time in aviation history, spanning the 1920s and 1930s, in which biplanes (or aircraft with wings stacked one above the other) became increasingly popular. Waco Aircraft Co. quickly became the most recognized biplane manufacturer and has retained that title, even to this day. Modifications have been made to modernize the aircraft, but the spirit of the barnstorming era continues to inspire those who fly in it, Walsh said.

Although generations have passed since the introduction, Waco biplanes continue to impress all ages with their open-cockpit design and remarkable flying capabilities. "Everyone who flies in the Waco always has a great time and really enjoys learning the history of the aircraft," said Geof Bush, Waco Air Adventure representative at the Yankee Air Museum.

Sitting in an open-cockpit, riders view the landscape, landmarks and experience a new sense of freedom. The pilot will fly under Visual Flight Rules (VFR), which ensures the weather is ideal for an Air Adventure in the Waco. Yankee Air Museum pilots are knowledgeable about the aircraft, and have logged numerous hours of flight-time.

The Detroit Aviation and Airline Collectables Show will take place at Willow Run Airport, Hangar 1, 801 Kirk Profit Dr., Ypsilanti, beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday May 20.

Although 'on site' openings may be available, reservations for Waco rides are highly recommended. Anyone wishing to reserve a ride and view additional information, is encouraged to visit the YAM website at http://www.yankeeairmuseum.org/waco-biplane, email: biplanerides@yankeeairmusuem.org or contact Bush at (734) 776-7569. Pricing on the WACO is $195 for a Yankee Air Museum member or $225 for a non-member or $295 for two museum members or $325 for non-members.

NORTHVILLE - PLYMOUTH

Heavy truck traffic ban imposed in Northville

It took Northville residents and officials nearly a year, but their efforts to ban commercial truck traffic on some roads in the community have been successful.

Recently, Wayne County workers installed signs warning commercial truck drivers that they were prohibited from using Six Mile Road between Ridge and Napier and Napier Road between Eight Mile and Six Mile roads. The order to ban the heavy trucks on the roads was issued by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners after nearly a year of requests from Northville residents and officials.

The requests claimed that the heavy trucks, usually traveling to the Arbor Hills landfill and Calo & Sons concrete crushing operation, brought undue noise, raised dust and were damaging the local roadways. The trucks were also cited as a safety hazard for those traveling to and from a nearby school. Between 200-300 trucks travel to the two facilities in question on a daily basis, officials estimated.

Heavy, commercial hauling trucks apprehended using the controlled roadways will now be subject to a $150 fine.

Northville Township Supervisor Bob Nix invited several local officials to the area to announce the new traffic rules recently. County Commissioners Joe Barone and Terry Marecki were on hand to accept thanks from Nix for their help in the situation.

Nix said he was very pleased with the cooperation and efforts of the county to help the community in the problematic situation. Wayne County is responsible for road repair and maintenance in the township. He stressed that commercial trucks being used for local deliveries and rubbish and garbage vehicles involved in local collections would not be affected by the new ban.

History lessons

Mark Malcom, left, and Mark Anusbigian, president of Westborn Market, spoke to members of the Plymouth Noon Rotary Club recently about preservation efforts in the community. Anusbigian's son, Austin, manages the Plymouth market which is located in the restored 1935 Plymouth Post Office building owned by Malcolm. Malcolm and his wife, Patty, 30-year Plymouth residents, have been active in preservation efforts throughout the community including the 1834 Pumpkin Hill House and the 1918 Central Middle School where the Plymouth Arts and Recreation Complex (PARC) is now housed. Patty Malcolm was a founding member of the Plymouth Preservation Network and has served on the Historic District Commission while Mark Malcolm, retired from Ford Motor Co. and former CEO of Tower International where he remains on the board, served on the Plymouth Downtown Development Authority Board of Directors. Maybury offers Farm Camp for children

Maybury Farm will again offer Farm Camp for children this summer. Farm Camp is designed to cultivate joy and wonder in children as they discover the amazing connections they have with animals, agriculture and farms, organizers said.

Farm Camp at Maybury Farm is a total hands-on experience that offers a wide variety of activities designed to engage and educate children about farming. Campers will learn about farm animals including grooming, feeding and exercising them, helping out in the garden, hiking along forest trails, team-building games, crafts and other farm activities.

Farm Camp at Maybury Farm is open to children ages 5-12 years old. Camp hours are 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays from June 20 until Aug. 17. There will be no camp the week of July 4. The cost is $175 per three-day week. To register, call (248)374-0200 or visit www.mayburyfarm.org/summercamp. Space is limited.

Maybury Farm is located at 50165 Eight Mile Road in Northville, 1-1/4 mile west of Beck Road on Eight Mile, 1/2 mile west of Maybury State Park.

Township Hall hours extended

Plymouth Township Hall will be open after hours' starting April 4.

The offices of the supervisor, treasurer, clerk, and building department will be open from 4:30 until 7 p.m. every first and third Tuesday for residents needing services including paying bills, obtaining a passport application, or seeking information about building permits.

"Our hardworking taxpayers deserve a township government that fits their busy schedules," said Supervisor Kurt Heise. "Our new evening hours will help residents who otherwise can't make it to township hall during the day."

Heise, Treasurer Mark Clinton, Clerk Jerry Vorva, Building Director Mark Lewis and select staff members will be on hand during the new evening hours to answer questions and provide assistance on most administrative matters, or simply to hear questions and concerns from residents, Heise said.

Heise added that the new evening hours are another example of how the new leadership is "changing the culture" at township hall.

"We're doing our best to live up to our township motto - people, our priority," Heise said. "We're listening to our customers and working to help wherever we can."

Director Faas explained it is covered by the zoning ordinances. Clerk Siegrist agreed to assist Filas in locating this information on line. Bob Cieslak, 42203 Greenwood Drive, commented on Willow Creek, and the 1987 flooding of 4 lots at the corner of Greenwood and Lilley Roads. Cieslak claims he has contacted both Wayne County and Canton regarding a flooding problem with no solution to the problem. He is requesting the township's assistance in resolving this matter. Director Faas stated the county receives $5000/mile to maintain the drain system. Final financial responsibility for repairs would normally fall to the property owners. Faas agreed to coordinate a meeting involving the county, the township, and the homeowners association(s) to facilitate the repair and special assessment options. Typically, the county, not the township, handles the assessment. This drain is the largest county drain in the township. Per Supervisor Williams suggestion, Faas agreed to arrange a meeting with Wayne County, Canton Township and the effected associations. Faas will contact Cieslak, as well as the adjoining condominium and/or homeowners associations with details. George Miller, 1946 Briarfield, commented on drain problems along Sheldon Road north of Palmer Road. Miller asked about cleaning of the ditches within the township as well. Westland mayor receives Regional Ambassador Award

Westland Mayor William R. Wild has been honored with the Southeast Michigan Council of Government (SEMCOG) Regional Ambassador Award, the highest honor given to individuals who contribute to making Southeast Michigan a better place to live, work and raise a family.

Wild has been a constant voice for SEMCOG and its regional work. He has chaired the Legislative Policy Task Force and has set an example for the redevelopment of vacant buildings, according to a statement. SEMCOG officials noted that Wild led the transformation of an empty big-box retail store into a state- of-the-art city hall, a project that has received numerous awards. His efforts as a voice for local government collaboration, working to identify opportunities to partner with neighboring communities to share staff and jointly offer emergency dispatch services were also lauded by the group.

> We appreciate the work that Mayor Wild does to improve Southeast Michigan.

"We appreciate the work that Mayor Wild does to improve Southeast Michigan," commented SEMCOG Executive Director Kathleen Lomako. "This award acknowledges and thanks him for his great work on behalf of our region."

"On behalf of the City of Westland, I appreciate SEMCOG's regional perspective and vision and it makes me proud to work with them," Wild said.

"I am grateful for the work they do for the region and for helping me to become a better public servant."

Residents can now comment on proposed city projects

Westland residents now have the opportunity to actively participate in plans for development in their community.

The city has launched a webpage that includes two short surveys for residents who can access the site and let their opinions be known. The website, cityofwestland.com, under Master Plan, also contains information about meeting dates and updates on projects throughout the planning process, according to a statement from the office of Mayor William Wild.

The city master plan is not a rigid ordinance or local statute but is a guide to be used by the community, particularly members of the city planning commission, zoning board of appeals and the city council as policies and decisions that will affect the physical development of the community. As time progresses, the master plan must remain flexible to adapt to changes, according to the statement. A review of the master plan is mandated every five years by state statute.

Westland currently has a master plan steering committee and members have met several times to start shaping policies, goals and objectives. The latest master plan update includes two small area projects, the Historic Village Park Plan and the Norwayne Plan. Each of these plans will be designed to guide development, redevelopment and investment in these specific areas.

"We held meetings on each of these area plans in the month of March," commented Wild. "The feedback we received was informative and helpful and these surveys will give residents that missed the public meetings a chance to participate in the process."

All information related to the master plan process will be posted on the website.

Canton Police retain prestigious accreditation

Canton Public Safety Director Joshua Meier and Deputy Police Chief Craig Wilsher made a special appearance before the members of the Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies, Inc. (CALEA) last month.

Their responses to the formal interview allowed the Canton Township Police Department to once again retain the coveted international accreditation status from the prestigious organization.

Canton first met the rigorous criteria required for such accreditation in 2007 and has had that status renewed following a review of procedures and policies every three years since that time. To merit re-accreditation every three years, department officials must demonstrate that the agency has continued to comply with the standards set forth by CALEA. Along with the submission of annual reports, the department must successfully pass an on-site assessment and hearing before the commission members.

Last fall, representatives from CALEA conducted a comprehensive on-site assessment of the department, reviewing polices and procedures to demonstrate continued compliance. "I'm proud of this department and the work that has gone into maintaining our CALEA accreditation over the past nine years," said Meier. "We do not take our accreditation status for granted- we are continually working to improve by incorporating the mission and philosophy of CALEA into all policies and procedures within the Canton Police Department," he added.

> We do not take our accreditation status for granted...

CALEA accreditation is touted as "the gold standard in public safety" and is considered a highly-prized recognition of law enforcement excellence. The Canton Police Department continues to be the largest municipal law enforcement agency in Michigan to be accredited. Law enforcement accreditation provides numerous benefits to the community ranging from the potential control of liability costs to a stronger defense against litigation. Accreditation standards also require an in-depth evaluation of department operations, ensuring it is running at top efficiency.

The latest re-accreditation was granted for a three-year term, during which time the department will continue to uphold the high standards on which they received this prestigious award, Meier added.

Local actors bring Hello Dolly to Canton stage

The Spotlight Players will continue their production of the Broadway classic, "Hello Dolly" at the Cherry Hill Village Theater in Canton April 7, 8 and 9. The show centers around Dolly Levi, one of New York City's best-known matchmakers, who intends to marry the wealthy Horace Vandergelder, so she can send his money circulating among the people like rainwater the way her late husband, Ephraim Levi, taught her. Along the way, to the aisle, she also succeeds in match making literally a whole cast of characters in this beloved musical comedy.
